Did Montevideo residents buy air-conditioning units?

While some Montevideo residents did buy air-conditioning units, many continued their low-consumption habits. They hung their laundry and took the bus, with dozens of electric buses now available. Others bought plug-in timers or installed solar water heaters.

How did Montevideo residents adapt to the heat?

Some bought air-conditioning units, but many kept to their formerly low-consumption habits, continuing to hang their laundry and take the bus, dozens of which in Montevideo were now electric. Others bought plug-in timers to automate their laundries to run at night or installed solar water heaters on their roofs.
